

Can Your Client Decide?

The Ethical and Legal Issues of Medical Decision Making

A Free CEU Program for Social Workers

Approved by NASW-NJ for 2 Ethics, non-clinical credits for Social Workers

Presented by:

Lori Stein Kayne, MSW, LSW, C-ASWCM

*Shana Siegel, ESQ., CELA

Wednesday, April 10th

8:30am - Breakfast and Registration

9:00am-11:00am – CEU

CareOne at Livingston

68 Passaic Ave, Livingston NJ 07039

RSVP: (862) 240-4181 by 4/8

Seminar participants will:

- Identify how the social work code of ethics relates to principles of medical ethics
- Define decision making capacity and the concept of informed consent
- Name 10 myths about decision making capacity and recognize red flags that a capacity determination is needed
- Compare clinical approaches to determining medical decision making capacity
- Describe Federal and NJ laws related to medical decision making
- Describe the purpose of a Mental Health Advanced Directive
- Describe the process that occurs in the absence of legal documents
- Analyze case examples

This course, Can Your Client Decide?: The Ethical and Legal Issues of Making Medical Decisions, Approval #170711-0120R, provided by Norris McLaughlin, is approved for continuing education by the New Jersey Social Work Continuing Education Approval Collaborative, which is administrated by NASW-NJ. CE approval period: 4/14/18-8/31/20. Social workers will receive two (2) nonclinical and ethics continuing education hours for participating in this course.

*If you require special assistance please contact Megan to inform her of your special needs at (551)-276-7239.

Please direct any complaints or concerns to lkayne@norris-law.com or call 908-252-4255.

*Certified by the ABA approved National Elder Law Foundation.