

cordially invites you to

2018 Employment Law Breakfast Series: Protecting Confidential & Proprietary Information

Norris McLaughlin & Marcus, P.A., is pleased to present a series of presentations on significant legal issues facing human resource professionals, business owners, and in-house lawyers. These seminars will highlight timely legal developments and managerial concerns in labor and employment law.

The third seminar of the series, Protecting Confidential & Proprietary Information, set for September 6, will review non-compete and non-solicitation agreements, confidentiality and non-disclosure forms, and state and federal laws protecting proprietary information.

Upcoming seminars include Navigating the Termination Process (November 8), and Year in Review (December 13).

Presenter:

Patrick T. Collins, Norris McLaughlin & Marcus, P.A. — Pat is Chair of the firm's Labor & Employment Group. He practices labor, employment and personnel law on behalf of employers and management personnel. He is experienced in all areas of litigation in both federal and state courts, defending discrimination and sexual harassment claims; wrongful discharge and whistleblower suits; and claims brought under the Americans With Disabilities Act, the Family and Medical Leave Act, and the multitude of other civil rights and anti-discrimination laws.
